

Martin Chautari

invites you to a discussion on

Centre for Nepal Studies UK (CNSUK): An Overview

by

Chandra K. Laksamba

at

Martin Chautari Seminar Hall, Thapathali, Kathmandu, 25 May 2017 (Thursday, 3:00pm)

Chandra K. Laksamba holds a PhD in lifelong learning from the University of Surrey. Prior to pursuing academic career, he served for 19 years in the British Gurkha army. He is a founding member, and former Executive Director and Senior Researcher of CNSUK. He was the coordinator of CNSUK's 'Large-scale Survey 2007–09 on Nepalis Living in the UK', researcher and member of the University of Oxford/CNSUK's 'Vernacular Religion Project 2009–12', and Lead Researcher of 'Gurkha Research Project 2012–14'. Currently, he is leading CNSUK's 'Social Mobility Research Project on Nepali Diaspora in the UK 2015–16'. He is interested in the anthropology of Nepali diaspora and social mobility, Gurkhas and issues of equality, lifelong learning, globalisation, active citizenship and youth movement.

This is a public discussion and participation is open to all.

RSVP: 4238050, 4102027, 4102243

